Brief history

- A percussion instrument is a musical instrument that is sounded by being struck or scraped by a beater, scraped or rubbed by hand or struck against another similar instrument.
- The percussion family is believed to include the oldest musical instruments, following the human voice.
- Percussion instruments are most commonly divided into two classes: Pitched percussion instruments, and unpitched percussion instruments.
- An unpitched percussion instrument is a percussion instrument played in such a way as to produce sounds of indeterminate pitch. For example: rattles.
- Pitched percussion instruments can play different notes, just like the woodwind, brass and string instruments. For example: xylophone or piano.
